

The Harrows

Barbados Darts Festival

As the title suggests, this event is designed to provide those with a love of the game the opportunity to socialise and play with and against darts players from different parts of the globe – as well as enjoying a vacation in one of the most sought-after destinations in the world.

Now in its successful 16th year, the Festival is open to darts players, both male and female, of all standards. Family and friends of those participating are also encouraged to come along as the itinerary is designed to be inclusive and provides something for everyone.

With over 15 years experience in organising the event and with so many of the participants returning on numerous occasions, the Festival Director Michael Heal is confident that what is on offer has wide appeal and meets all the criteria for those looking for “a holiday with darts in a stunning Caribbean environment”. To regard the Festival purely as an opportunity to win tournaments would be to misunderstand its true character.

As well as participants from the U.K., Canada and the USA, the Festival attracts players from other Caribbean islands and South America and, of course, from the host country, Barbados. The Brits, Canadians and Americans usually stay for the duration of the Festival – and longer – whilst those from the Caribbean and South America stay for 3 or 4 nights to take in the tournaments at Solidarity House over the weekend of 9-11 November.

Accommodation:

The HQ hotels are in the popular St Lawrence Gap just yards away from the clear, warm, azure blue ocean. A host of restaurants, bars, night clubs, and shops are all within easy walking distance.

Hotel rooms to suit all tastes and budgets in our HQ hotels are available from c.$110 per night (2 sharing – so $55 US each). There are also some two bedroom apartments available and these work out cheaper per person per night with the costs shared between four.

The fee for full participation in all the events at the Festival is £80 per person and £40 per person as social members.

LET'S GET STARTED

HOW TO JOIN US:

Simply advise the Festival Director of your interest and he will provide you with more information and advice. Then book a return flight to Barbados to take in the period of the Festival – arriving earlier or staying later if you so wish. The key to getting good bargains on flights is to book early. Thomas Cook Airlines already has return flights to Barbados out of Manchester from November at very reasonable prices - c.£460 return. Both BA & Virgin operate daily flights from Gatwick and they usually have flight sales in November/December also.

With your flights booked contact The Festival Director with your choice of HQ hotel and type of room you require and the Festival Director will organise this.

Conditions For Entry to the Festival are that participants must book their hotel accommodation through the Festival Director and pay a registration fee of £80 per person for full participation and £40 for social participation at least one month prior to the Festival. All matters relating to the organisation and participation in the Barbados Darts Festival remain at the discretion of The Festival Director.
